

Sarah Woolfenden

With a Bachelor of Science in Family Life Science from Brigham Young University, a business dedicated to teaching time management and work-life balance, and a heartfelt commitment to community service, Sarah Woolfenden brings a wealth of experience and passion to the table as a candidate for the school board.

Sarah's dedication to education and community development is evident through her various roles over the years, including founding and coordinating a community preschool program, serving as a youth development professional at the Boys and Girls Club of America, and leading the curriculum committee at her children's previous school.

As a military spouse for over a decade, Sarah understands the unique challenges faced by military families and has actively supported them as a Soldier and Family Readiness Group leader for her husband's Army company. Her podcast, aimed at providing resources for the military community, reflects her ongoing commitment to serving those who serve our country.

Sarah's leadership extends beyond her professional endeavors; she has served as the President of the women's organization for her congregation for three years, demonstrating her ability to bring people together and effect positive change within her community.

Her decision to choose The Vanguard School for her children's education was rooted in the school's values of citizenship, respect, integrity, self-discipline, and excellence. Sarah is passionate about continuing the legacy of excellence established by past families and ensuring that future generations benefit from the same quality education and nurturing environment.

Sarah's vision for the school includes fostering a love of learning, promoting the teaching of history at all levels, and recruiting quality staff members who are enthusiastic about The Vanguard School's goals and standards.

Sarah Woolfenden is committed to serving the students, families, and staff of The Vanguard School as a member of the school board.
